Where to retire is a major decision, as many of us first experience in helping our parents. Houses once filled with family become a challenge to maintain, yet we all want to live in our own homes as long as possible. Too often a medical emergency forces a quick and emotional decision with no plans in place.

The good news for baby boomers like me is that we can enjoy the best of life now and in the years to come at vibrant retirement communities such as The Cypress of Charlotte in South Park. The homes, food, service and amenities are extraordinary at The Cypress, and the luxury retirement community celebrates the freedom that comes with age by offering limitless dining options and activities for residents. At The Cypress of Charlotte, you may purchase a spacious Cottage or Villa that suits your tastes and finances. The buildings and grounds are beautifully appointed, and the on-campus health-care is convenient. The secluded community has a centerpiece lake with landscaped gardens and walking trails; yet it is just a few minutes away from the great shopping, dining and excitement in the South Park area.

The Grand Clubhouse is elegant, with the feel and energy of a country club. It offers casual and formal dining, a fireside bistro bar, fitness center, indoor pool, library, art studio, salon and spa. You will always find good company at the clubhouse, and the on-site activities director keeps residents busy with classes, concerts, parties, dances and more. The Cypress has a volleyball team, croquet team, trivia team and motorized yacht racing team. They even have their own honeybees and make their own honey.

You may enjoy gourmet dining with fine wine at The Cypress Club or more casual options at the Copper Grille, but the diverse menus at The Cypress are always delicious and artfully prepared. There is a complimentary breakfast each morning and a Grand Brunch buffet on Sundays. Free valet parking is available at the clubhouse with no tipping, and if you feel like eating in, meals will be delivered to your home at no charge.

The Cypress of Charlotte is an award winning Life Plan Community which exceeds the standards of a traditional Continuing Care Retirement Community. The highest level of care is provided for members who may need assisted living, skilled nursing, or memory care. The Life Plan Community focuses on care as well as other factors that members consider important to their retirement.

The luxury lifestyle, excellent location and benefits of equity home ownership make The Cypress life an exciting choice for active adults age 62 and older. When the time comes to simplify, downsize and have some fun, take a look at what senior living can be. The best is yet to come at The Cypress.
